

Photograph courtesy of John Myers, Arizona - Solomon was his great grandfather

Solomon Morash

b. April 7, 1845 in Lunenburg d. October 31, 1933 in Lunenburg.

Associated Places: Lunenburg Academy - 97 Kaulbach Street, Lunenburg Opera House - 290 Lincoln Street
St. John's Anglican Church - 64 Townsend Street

Contributions: Built Heritage - Architecture

Solomon Morash married Ellen Matilda Hirtle in 1869, and had five children, Mary Ellen, Archibald Fenwick, Mary Eva, Howard Victor and Dora Eugene.

Mr. Morash was a prominent Architect and shipbuilder, undertaking a number of Lunenburg's significant structures such as the Lunenburg Academy, the Lunenburg Opera House, the Morash Gallery and the addition onto the St. John's Anglican Church. He created some of the most beautiful and inspirational buildings that are still admired to this day and which contribute greatly to the Town's status as a UNESCO World Heritage Site.

He became a master shipbuilder for John Bruno Young from 1906 to 1912 building such notable ships as the Mildred G. Myers in 1906; the Advocate in 1909; the J. B. Young in 1909 and the Mary D. Young in 1912.

